NOTES OF THE WEEK.

FROM 25TH JUNE TO 2ND JULY.

The Legislative Assembly throughout the week has been occupied with the discussion of Mr. Parkes' motion for the adoption of the Report of the Select Committee appointed to inquire into the transference of public moneys from the Bank of New South Wales to the City and Oriental Banks. The debate, which excited great interest, terminated in favour of the Government.

The medals have broken out in Wallabadah.

A testimonial has recently been presented to the Hon. Mr. Thackeray, of West Mainland.

On the night of the 24th June, a woman named Tait, alias M. Grogan, died suddenly in Kent-street.

On the 24th June, the Hon. Saul Samuel, G.C.M.G., was elected a director of the Australian Mutual Provident.

A well is reported to have been found on the Maryvale Estate, near Morwell in Gippsland, evidently an extinct crater. The well is of unknown depth, and the water rises and falls at regular intervals.

Last Wednesday week, a girl named Anne M'Nulty was accidentally drowned at West Mainland.

Last Saturday week, the dead body of a young man named P. R. Layard (evidently murdered), was found in the river at Waga Waga.

At the annual general meeting of the Sydney University Union took place at the Free Public Library on the 25th ultimo. A report was adopted and officers were elected.

Mr. Alderman J. V. Barnard has been elected Mayor of Woolliuhra.

A great flood was reported from the Tumut on the 26th June.

Mr. Layme, of Shoalhaven, was accidentally killed by a dray accident near Braidwood, on the 25th ultimo.

On Sunday last there was a heavy fall of snow at Goullurn.

At Bullin, on the 26th, a miner named, Edward Barlow, was killed by a fall of stone.

On the 26th of the afternoon, there was a Commanding Officer's Parade of Volunteers at the Barrington Barracks. The new helmets were worn for the first time.

On the 19th ultimo, at Oakbank, near Dubbo, a young man, named James Groves, was kicked to death by a horse.

Lyster's Opera Bouffe season commenced at the Victoria Theatre last Saturday night. On the same evening Barlow's Circus was opened at the Haymarket.

Mr. W. A. Long has been returned to the Assembly by the electorate of Central Cumberland.

A silver salver was presented at Bathurst to Mr. Lee, P.M., on Monday last.

Last Wednesday week, a girl, named Maria Covey, was accidentally killed at Currumbin.

There was no House in the Legislative Assembly last Monday afternoon at 4 p.m.

The newspaper controversy about the diocese of Bathurst still continues.

The Journal d'Outremer of the 30th March last commented severely on Mr. Puch's expulsion from New South Wales.

On Wednesday evening the 30th of June, the steamer

It is proposed to establish an Academy of Music in his city.

On Wednesday week, a fishing and hunting excursion was taken by the Sydney and Newcastle steamship left Sydney for Lake Macquarie, in the company of a Pelican.

A deputation of gentlemen have presented a petition to the Minister for Works in favour of a branch railway from Wallerawang to Mudgee.

The tenth anniversary of the Sydney Night Refuge

The fourteenth annual meeting of the New South Wales Rifle Association was held at the Brigade Office on Thursday last, when a report was adopted.

Last Wednesday night, a young woman, named Esther, died, suddenly at St. Leonards.

An address on "Silver tree acacia" was presented to Mr. R. Travis, of Maryborough, for saving property at the stranding of the Lady Robinson on Fraser Island, last year.

4000 acres of land were selected and sold at Forbes on Thursday last.

The foundation stone of St. Paul's Church, Marlborough, was laid on the 30th ultimo.

Mr. De Boos, the Warden at Broadwood, has made a large collection of specimens for the Philadelphia Exhibition.

The School of Arts at Newcastle was opened on Thursday last.

LAST DAY OF TERM.

BEFORE SIR JAMES MARTIN (Chief Justice), Mr. Justice

On the motion of Sir George Innes, Mr. Charles Henry Bennett, who was admitted as an attorney of the Courts of Queen's Bench, Common Pleas and Exchequer, and of the High Court of Chancery in 1826, was admitted an attorney, solicitor, and proctor of the Supreme Court.

On the motion of Sir George Innes, Mr. A. Marson Neal was admitted an attorney, solicitor, and proctor of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Paterson moved the admission of Mr. Thomas Michael Slattery, the chief clerk of the Supreme Court.

The CHIEF JUSTICE said that Mr. Slattery had long been connected with the law, and was a member of the Court, and his attention to his duties and manner of

On the motion of Mr. Justice HARRISON, the conditional administration was confirmed.

DEANE V. MALONEY.

This was a demurrer to two of the defendant's pleas.

Mr. Salmon, in support of the demurrer, said: "The defendant's second plea is defective because it is not supported by the demurrer; Sir William Manning, Q. C. (Mr. A. Knox with him) defended the plea.

The declaration was for not completing a purchase at auction of the right title and interest of one Hugh George Deane in certain land in the city of Sydney, sold by the plaintiff as mortgagee.

One of the defendant's pleas (the second) was allowed so that it is unnecessary to set it out; but the third plea is defective because it is not supported by the demurrer.

"And for a third plea, by way of defence on equitable grounds, the defendant says that, before the sale by public auction in the declaration mentioned, the plaintiff caused to be mortgaged to him certain land in the city of Sydney, the title to which was in the plaintiff."

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN AND TASMANIAN LIVE STOCK STATISTICS.

(Abstracted from the S. A. Register, June 18.)

THE complete agricultural and live stock statistics for 1874-5, which were recently laid before Parliament, are replete as the returns for former years with valuable information respecting two of the leading industries in South Australia. In the present instance the facts tabulated by Mr. Booth are of a highly interesting character; they afford conclusive evidence that agricultural settlement is proceeding at a rapid rate, that the colony is making corresponding progress in production, and that, notwithstanding the constant encroachments upon the domain of the aboriginals, the extension of farming involves, in the aggregate, the extension of farming involves, the flocks and herds in the country continue to increase in quantity than is recorded of any previous year, passed into the hands of private persons. The total area alienated country now reaches 6,712,778 acres, but it is needful to remember that of this quantity 1,308,303 acres are held under credit agreements, which are not likely every instance to be completed. During the past 12 months, 10,000 acres of land have been sold, and $1,107,000 has been rendered, so that the total volume of settlement completed with 1875 was reduced to 362,378 acres. Mr. Boothby says that the Government has been able to sell so much land by omitting to give particulars as to the number and size of the holdings into which the alienated land is distributed, and by not giving the names of the purchasers. He is careful to inform us, however, that the average of the sold land has advanced from 26 to 28 acres for each person, and that the average of the unsold land has advanced from 120 acres for every male adult, to 125 acres for every male adult. The increase in the value of the land held by freeholders is set down at £2,525,000, and the increase in the value of the land held by tenants at £1,800,000. The latter figure must not, however, be regarded as representing the whole of the area parted with in fee simple by the Government during the year, inasmuch as the Government has sold 10,000 acres of land, and disposed of cash, at 4s.00s each previously taken up on credit, of a total of 109,256 acres were purchased outright.

plensing to notice that the quantity of land enclosed amounts to 17,728,711 acres, of which 2,008,101 acres has been fenced since 1873. Of that area, 16,508,484 acres is returned as uncultivated, and may be taken to represent the most part pastoral country. That the fencing of run is proceeding with undiminished vigour is conclusively proved by the fact that the enclosed land in the pastoral districts shows an increase from three millions of acres in 1873 to 10,101,161 acres in 1900, or an increase of 7,101,161 acres before referred to counties.

The striking feature brought out by the returns is the advance which has occurred in the acreage under cultivation. The total acre ploughed last season was 1,330,484 acres, or an increase of 187,734 acres on the acreage ploughed in 1899, or 10,101,161 acres, although this may be rather a hasty progress some sanguine persons expected, it compares more favorably with 1874-5, when the increase was only 62,000 acres, and the acreage under cultivation was 1,268,484 acres, each man, woman, and child in the colony to 61 acres, or for every person returned in the last census as engaged in agriculture 4.3 acres of ploughed land in the colony was under cultivation last season. Wheat, as in former years, was the principal crop raised, and the following are the full particulars respecting this crop were published as

It will be sufficient to recall the fact that the area now was 839,638 acres, being an increase of 54,854 acres, so that the produce reached 9,892,693 bushels, the largest record, or an average of 11 bushels 45 lb. as against a yield for 1878-4 of 6,178,816 bushels or an average of 7 bushels 52 lb. per acre.

202,934 tons, being at the rate of 1 ton 5 cwt. to the acre. In 1873-4 the yield was only 145,899 tons, and the average per acre 1 ton. The particulars as to potato crop are every respect satisfactory. From the 4582 acres planted with 17,046 tons of tubers were dug, or 3 tons 14 lb per acre, being an excess as against 1873-4 of 769 acres at the rate of 4022 tons in excess of the average.

popularity which puts cultivation of growing in the Moreau Gnamier district is shown by the fact that considerable quantities of the seed of the best of the vines grown in the neighborhood. The official figures for the year 1927, which was believed to have been record in flax cultivation, show even being returned at 274 acres as against 329 acres in 1926. The increase in the number of vines planted is due, owing to the non-success of all attempts which have hitherto been made to devise machinery to cheapen the process of sowing. The vines are planted in rows, and the farmer has little hope that the cultivation of flax will become a profitable colonial industry.

There were 3077 acres and gardens in 1927, and 4287 acres, or identically the same area as the year before, so that it must be inferred that the improvement of home methods of cultivation is not yet advanced enough to make the efforts make undeniably also progress. Vine cultivation, moreover, is still on the decrease, the last year showing a reduction of 100 acres, and the number of vines in bearing from 1,000,000 to 800,000.

3,100,512 8.254,391. By way of set-off to this last decrease 51,207 new vines have been planted, but there remains the unwelcome fact that the vine and wine interest is not extending so rapidly as could be desired. The quantity of grapes sold has declined from 44,982 cwt. to 40,611 cwt. and the manufacture of wine has fallen off most seriously. The vintage of 1873 produced 733,478 gallons, while the vineyard of 1874 yielded only 648,196 gallons, or a decrease of 10,000,000 gallons from the production of 1873. This subject is one that the vineyard raisers of this State are distressed by, and it is probable that those who contained inferior vines are the ones who are suffering the most. The production is likely to prove an old story, and the vineyard industry. The statistics of live stock are as gratifying as those of the vineyard. The number of horses in the State has risen from 86,328 in 1873 to 100,000 in 1874, an increase of 13,672. The number of sheep has risen from 1,784,981 to 1,865,341, and of sheep from 5,617,419 to 6,120,292, an increase of 502,873. The number of cattle has risen from 1,017,491 to 1,049,291, an increase of 31,800. Pigs have decreased by 9317, from 1,049,291 to 1,039,974. The aggregate of these animals being 78,019 and 18,907; the aggregate of the kind has increased by 5081, and now reaches 1,049,291. The number of horses has increased by 13,672, and now reaches 100,000. The condition in which the agricultural and pastoral interests are shown to be by Mr. Boothby's returns.

ment respecting two of the leading industries in South Australia. In the past, the agricultural sector has been the mainstay of the economy. It is a highly satisfactory character, they afford conclusive evidence that agricultural settlement is proceeding at a rapid rate, and that the colony is making rapid progress in the direction of self-sufficiency and economic independence. The Commission, and the Government, are understanding the constant encroachments upon the domain of the squatter which the extension of farming involves, and are anxious to see that the land is put to the most profitable and fair use. Turning to the details of the report we find that during 1874 60,988 acres of Crown lands, or a large portion of the lands of the Government, had been sold and passed into the hands of private persons. The total area alienated country now reaches 6,714,776 acres, but it is pointed out that the Government still retains 1,000,000 acres held under credit arrangements which are not likely ever instance to be completed. During the past 12 months the Government has sold 1,077,000 acres of land, and it is rendered, so that the actual increase of settlement compared with 1873 was reduced to 362,738 acres. Mr. Boothby at by ceding to give particular as to the number and size of the holdings into which the alienated land is distributed, and the tenure upon which they are at present constituted. He has, however, been able to ascertain that the total alienated land has advanced from 26 to 25 acres for each individual of the population, and from 112 to 109 acres for every male adult. The total area of land held by freeholders is down at 8,822,200 acres, the increase relatively to the previous year being 80,365 acres. The latter figure must not, however, be regarded as representing the total area of land held in fee simple by the Government during the twelvemonth. On the contrary, in the course of 1874, 69,210 acres were disposed for cash, and 54,066 acres previously taken up on leasehold tenure were sold. The total area of land returned as uncultivated, and may be taken to represent the most part pastoral country. That the fencing of rural districts, which was the subject of a special investigation, proved by the fact that the enclosed land in the pastoral districts shows an increase for the twelvemonth of more than three millions of acres. Singularly enough, the decrease in the cultivated area of the country for the twelvemonth since before referred to, has taken place mainly in the

A healthy future brought out by the return is the advance which has occurred in the acreage under cultivation. The total acre ploughed last season was 1,330,484 acres, against 1,225,073 acres the preceding year, or an increase of 105,411 acres. Although this may be rather below the progress some sanguine persons expected, it compares favorably with the figures of other countries.

A healthy future brought out by the return of the advance in the area of land cultivated in the country. The total area ploughed last season was 1,330,484 acres, against 1,226,073 acres the preceding year, or an increase of 9.3 per cent. The increase in the area of land ploughed in the preceding year, some persons explained, compares unfavorably with 1873-4, when the increase was only 60,000 acres. It, moreover, misses the average of tilled land in the preceding year, which was 1,350,000 acres, or 10,000 acres for every person returned in the last census as engaged in farming to 60 acres. Furthermore, it is intimated that out of every 4.3 acres of purchased land in the colony was 1.3 acres of land sold to the Government, and that the Government monopolized two-thirds of the whole of the ground sold, as full particulars respecting this crop were published some time ago, only a passing reference to the secondary crop. It will be interesting to recall the fact that the area sown in wheat last season was 54,864 acres, an increase of 839,683 bushels, or an increase of 54,864 acres, that the produce reached 958,093 bushels, the largest crop ever raised in the colony, and that the average yield was against a yield for 1873-4 of 6,178,816 bushels, or an average of 7 bushels 82 lbs. per acre. While the sown area employed shows an increase, the little increase in the crop, and the small increase in the yield, the out-turn they yielded affords evidence of the peculiar character of the season the farmers enjoyed in 1874-5.

acres, or an increase of 1807 acres; but the produce gave an average of 15 bushels 9 lbs. as against 10 bushels 34 lb. in the year before, and amounted in the aggregate to 208,373 bushels, or an increase of 126,396 bushels. On 2765 acres, and yielded 40,701 bushels, or an average of 14 bushels 26 lbs. per acre, the increase relative to 1873 area sown being returned at 274 acres as against 420 in the previous season. This falling-off is no doubt principally owing to the non-success of all attempts which have hitherto been made to devise machinery to cheapen the process of "pulling," and until that difficulty is surmounted there is little hope that the cultivation of flax will become which was believed to have occurred in flavit, the vine was being returned at 274 acres as against 230 in 1926. The vine is still being planted in the same area, but owing to the non-success of all attempts which have hitherto been made to devise machinery to chop the weeds, the vine is being planted in the same locality as the vine which has been destroyed. It is hoped that the cultivation of the vine will be profitable and that the colony industry will be able to flourish.

Orchards are reported to cover 3077 acres, and gardens 4240 acres. The same area as the above has been planted, so that it must be inferred that the improvement of home gardens in the new agricultural districts by horticultural methods is proceeding undeniably slow progress. Vine cultivation means the destruction of the vine which has been devoted to vineyards having fallen from 3217 to 507 acres, and the number of vines in bearing has fallen from 1,579,000 to 507,000. The number of vines in bearing has decreased 61,207 new vines have been planted, but there remains the unworkable fact that the vine and vine interest is not extending so rapidly as could be desired. The quantity of wine produced has fallen from 1,247,000 gallons to 84,392 gallons, and the manufacture of wine has fallen of most serious proportions. The vintage of 1926 produced 728,478 gallons, while the vintage of 1927 yielded only 646,196 gallons, or a decrease of 82,282 gallons. The vine is still being planted in the same subject is that the vineyards which are being destroyed are probably those which contained inferior vines.

tion is likely to prove an ultimate benefit to the wine industry. The statistics of live stock are as gratifying to those of agriculture. The number of horses in the colony has risen from 86,323 to 93,122, of horned cattle from 174,381 to 185,342, and of sheep from 5,617,419 to 6,120,234—the increase in the last case being over half-a-million.

tion is likely to prove an ultimate benefit to the wine industry. The statistics of live stock are as gratifying as these of agriculture. The number of horses in the colony has risen from 96,329 in 1931 to 93,515 in 1932, and from 174,981 to 185,242, and of sheep from 5,617,419 to 6,130,200. The number of head of poultry of all kinds have increased by 5081, and now reach 498,256. We congratulate the colony upon the prosperous condition of its agriculture, and the soundness of its pastoral interests, and are glad to hear that Mr. Boothby's returns are shown to be by Mr. Boothby's returns.
